SARAWAK | Kuching

Kuching ('cat' in Malay) exudes a unique charm as it blends the old and the modern perfectly as evident in its markets, shopping malls and diverse cultural centres. Don't forget to check out traditional bird's nest traders too.

Must-visit places:

Fairy Cave and Wind Cave (Limestone Formation and Bird's Nest production)

Astounding limestone formations which took millions of years to form is only an hour away from the city at Bau district. Breezy tunnels, nocturnal bats and bird's nests are found within the mysterious Fairy Cave and Wind Cave.

Sarawak Cultural Village

This one-stop centre of cultural splendour is a great way to introduce the diversity of Sarawak's people and their colourful heritage.

Morning Dolphin Cruise

You'll be completely enraptured when you come face to face with rare Irrawaddy dolphins as you cruise along the Santubong River.

Serikin Market

Keen on bustling markets? Then head on to the border of Borneo and Kalimantan for a taste of local culture and what else, shopping! Bargains to be sought are unique Sarawakian arts and crafts, tasteful snacks and colourful clothing.

Pottery and Bird's Nest Factory

Fine pottery is the perfect thing to have as a souvenir as its craftsmanship and detailing is totally unique to Sarawakian culture. Or if it's bird's nest that you fancy, then get some at the factory where you can view the interesting production process as well.

Must eat:

Kek Lapis Sarawak (Sarawak Layer Cake) - Layer upon layer of mouth watering goodness is found compressed into one cake. A favourite not only in Sarawak but the entire Malaysian population as well.

Ikan Terubuk Masin - Salted 'Terubuk' Fish is a delicacy which plenty of locals have as their daily staple - eaten fried, grilled or added to spicy gravy.

Sarawak Laksa - This is the most popular dish in the city which fuses Chinese and Malay flavours. Its simplicity of rice noodles topped with sweet, sour and tangy gravy makes it an ideal meal anytime of the day.

Manok Pansoh - An Iban tribe specialty, where all it takes is a bamboo stuffed with chicken pieces, vegetables and aromatic herbs and then cooked over open fire.

Umai - Enjoy a new taste bud like never before once you've had a bite of this famous raw fish salad, introduced by the ethnic Melanau tribe. The fish is marinated, then sliced and eaten like a local sashimi dish.

Midin - Local greens such as Midin are widely consumed because it is crispy and has an amazing taste. Though it looks like a fern, it has a sweet flavour to it. Try it stir-fried with garlic or "belacan" (fermented shrimp paste) just as the locals like it.

Nasi Aruk - Dried anchovies are the key ingredient in this traditional Sarawakian Malay Fried Rice, available at most restaurants and street stalls. Simply yummy!

Although petroleum has been the driving force of the city's thriving economy since 1910, Miri has other contributors as well such as eco-tourism and historical tours. It also boasts sprawling greens, challenging mountain trails and historical civilisations blending in with cosmopolitanism.

Must-visit places:

Grand Old Lady

Aptly named, this oil drill site is as impressive as it was almost a century ago and just as aged. This is the first oil well for SHELL globally and is now one of the nation's monumental pride.

Tamu Muhibbah

There're lots to see and do at this lively native market with vendors from different tribes – some as far as upriver from remote areas – selling exotic produces, Bario Rice and unique handicrafts.

San Ching Tian Temple

A sense of tranquillity envelopes the moment you enter this temple, touted to be the largest in Southeast Asia.

Niah Caves

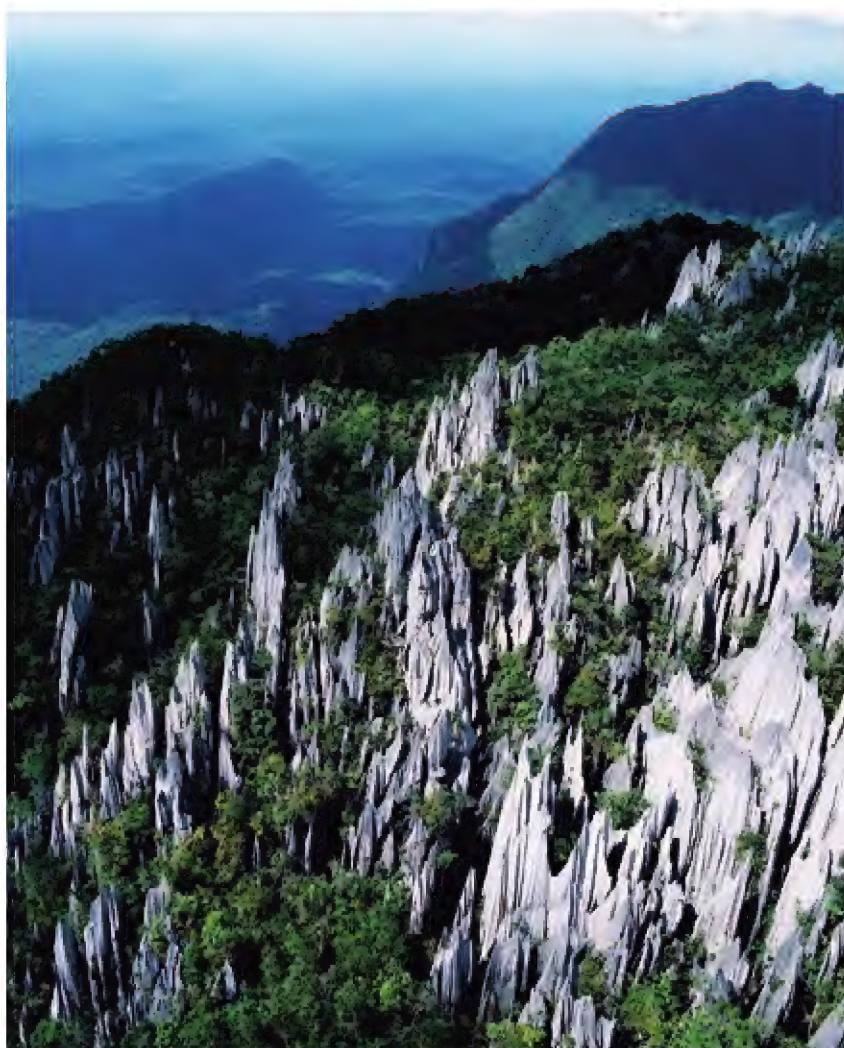

Ever since the discovery of ancient civilisations within these caverns at the Niah National Park, it has been attracting history buffs from the world over to marvel at prehistoric artefacts and 40,000-year-old skulls. Red haematic paintings, the only one in Borneo can also be found here.

Mulu and Deer Caves

Borneo Tropical Rainforest Resort

Mother Nature comes close to you when you visit this resort due to its main focus in agriculture and plant species.

Kampung Jepak

Experience the lifestyle of this traditional fisherman's village as you watch them make sago, dried fish and handicrafts. The friendly villagers of the Melanau tribe and Malays are also skilled in making the 'terendak' which is a traditional Melanau head gear.

Pasar Utama and Pasar Tamu Bintulu

Both of these markets are frequented by locals as it has a varied choice of goods and delicious snacks. There's so much to explore here and you'll be spoilt for choice with all the bargain shopping.

Similajau National Park

Similajau National Park is a magnificent mix of mangroves, tropical rainforests and sparkling beaches. The popular 'Golden Beach' is accessible by hiking through the jungle and you can take a victorious dip after all that climbing.

Bintulu Promenade

Touted as the Sarawak's longest and most impressive waterfront recreational area, this is the best place to view the scenic Kemena River during sunset.

As with prominent cities and towns in Sarawak, most are located by the river and Bintulu is no different. Dubbed the 'gateway,' it is the platform to cultural experiences, thrilling nature adventures, amazing beaches and fun activities.

Must eat:

Belacan (Shrimp Paste) - Its aroma is pungent, flavour addictive. Widely used as a base for most local dishes.

Cencaluk (Fermented Shrimp Sauce) - Another shrimp favourite is this dipping sauce made of fermented shrimp in vinegar and salt.

Sago Products - Local delicacies made from Sago are really scrumptious such as Tebaloi, Linut and Sago biscuits.

The Tua Pek Kong Temple

You must make it a point to visit this temple as it has a very interesting perseverance history. Apart from the main temple, there're also a seven-storey pagoda, scenic mini garden, and an opera house within its grounds.

Sibu Town Square

Take a leisurely time exploring the Sibu Town Square, the largest of its kind in Malaysia. Within the square you can do some sightseeing at historical sites or just enjoy a stroll along the waterfront where you can see the merging of the Rejang and Igan rivers.

Sibu Central Market

It's shopping and more shopping as that's the only thing to do here apart from digging into delicious local fare during your break from retail therapy.

Must eat:

Diang Biang Hu - Sibu is about the only place in Sarawak that has this traditional Foochow dish and it is tasty beyond words.

Kong Piang - Deliciously rich and a favourite amongst locals at tea time, this biscuit can be eaten just on its own as it has a variety of fillings. Baked in a traditional charcoal oven to maintain its unique flavour.

Red Wine Chicken - The red wine is the highlight of this dish as its combination with the sweetness of the chicken makes it a really hearty meal. It's another Foochow specialty and the red wine is normally homemade.

International Borneo Kite Festival

The Bintulu sky comes alive with vibrant colours and shapes of kites every September during this four-day festival. The best of traditional and modern kites from around the world are showcased and there are other activities such as kite making and cultural performances.

Bintulu Regatta

Similar to a Dragon Boat race, this annual event attracts teams of rowers especially from Bintulu. You would be tempted to participate as the prizes are really attractive.

Rainforest World Music Festival (RWMF)

One of the most popular music festivals in the world, happening every July or August. Native and percussion-based music serenade the enraptured audience coming from all corners of the world. It's an interactive concept as there're performances at the outdoor stage as well as in the longhouses.

Gawai Dayak

It's a celebration of unity among Sarawakian indigenous tribes starting from the eve of the festival, serving an endless flow of 'tuak' (rice wine) and local delicacies.

Kaul

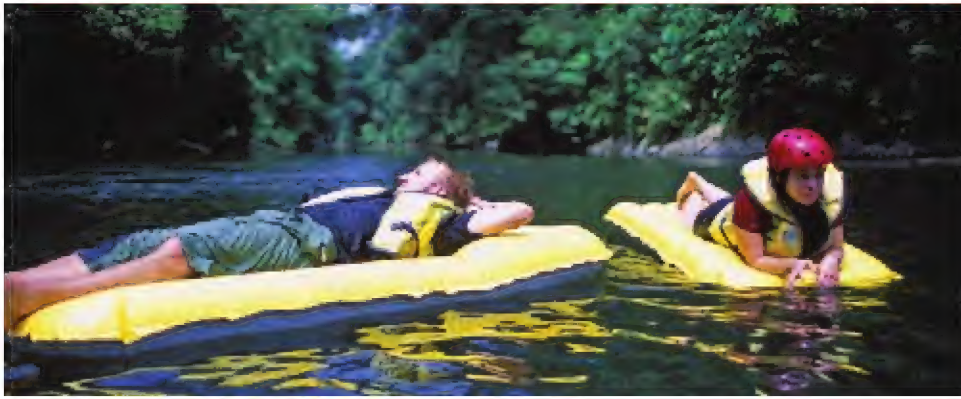

Every March or April, the Melanau fishermen community embrace this festivity of pacifying the sea spirits as it is the start of the fishing season. The boats carrying offerings make a surreal vision floating gently out to the sea. Next, the mood escalates with plenty of exciting activities.

Pesta Meow

Yes, you're right. Meow, as in a cat's meow. And this Cat Festival pays homage to its namesake home (Kuching) with adorable furry felines showcased in competitions and other forms of entertainment.
